4. Motor vehicle equipment of the 2d Inf Regt included 140 H-3 A trucks [redacted] the latter being a supply truck; 10 EW-type P-1 jeeps, 30 ZIS-151 trucks, 30 model Granit-27 Phaenomen jeeps, 1 large model Granit-27 Phaenomen ambulance; EW-type sedan [redacted] as vehicle of the advisors; 1 DMW-type sedan; 6 G-5 tank trucks with trailers; 1 x 3-ton trailer, 1 G-5 repair shop truck, 1 H-3 B headquarters vehicle and 4 SU-76 self-propelled mounts. Almost all vehicles were ready for employment, although most vehicles were not in operation. 25X1
5. From the personnel of the unit, 25 percent were members of the 1936 class, 25 percent of the 1935 class; 20 percent of the 1934 class, 15 percent of the 1933 class and the rest belonged to older classes. Eighty-two percent of the troops had served less than 3 years, 15 percent between 3 and 5 years and 3 percent more than 5 years. Five percent of the personnel came from Saxony-Anhalt, 50 percent from Saxony, 10 percent from Thuringia, 2 percent from Mecklenburg, 2 percent from Brandenburg and 1 percent from Berlin. Ten percent of the troops were true for the regime, 20 percent were neutral, 40 percent were indifferent and 30 percent were opposed. Morale was poor because of long duty hours, restriction to quarters, too frequent political indoctrination and insufficient supply with underwear.
6. Attached to the unit were a chief advisor, with the rank of colonel, and a political advisor with the rank of a lieutenant colonel.
7. In September and October, a KVP captain picked out from volunteers reliable personnel for guard duty at a secret installation which was under construction about 10 km from an undetermined town. In this connection, the town of Guestrow was mentioned.²
1. Comment. The number of 1,400 men for the 2d Regt is believed to be underestimated. [redacted] the ration strength of the 2d Regt, on 3 January 1954, was 1,600 men. The deactivation of the heavy machine gun platoons is believed to be a temporary measure as a result of vacancies. 25X1
2. Comment. The only VP post known in the vicinity of Guestrow is Kluoss where a technical sergeant school and a KVP ammunition depot are located. It is possible that these installations will be enlarged. 25X1
